Dear
Editor International Journal of Science and Society (IJSOC)

We have read and used scientific articles published in IJSOC.
The performance of the IJSOC was excellent, and the published article helped us conduct research and write scientific reports.

I am Ade Maharini Adiandari, representing other authors from Universitas Ngurah Rai, Bali, Indonesia.
We have completed a scientific article entitled "Kembangan Dam Safety Risk Index Sragen Regency."

We hope this article can be published in the IJSOC because exciting findings in the scientific report can become new treasures in science, especially in techic sciences.
We are willing to go through the review process following IJSOC standards.

Best Regards,

Ade Maharini Adiandari
Universitas Ngurah Rai, Bali, Indonesia

Dear

Ade Maharini Adiandari
Universitas Ngurah Rai, Bali, Indonesia

Thank you for submitting the manuscript to IJSOC.

We have completed our evaluation, and the reviewers recommend reconsidering the manuscript following minor revisions. Please resubmit the revised manuscript by July 26th, 2023, or ask whether an alternate date would be acceptable. We invite you to send it back after addressing the comments below.

When revising the manuscript, consider carefully all issues mentioned in the reviewers' comments: outline every change made in response to their comments and provide suitable explanations for any remarks not addressed. Please also note that the revised submission may need to be reviewed.

To submit a revised manuscript, please log in as an author at this email, and navigate to the "Revision" folder. IJSOC values team contribution, and I look forward to receiving the revised manuscript.

Editor and reviewer comments:

Reviewer #1:

1. The article could benefit from a clearer and more explicit statement of the research objectives and hypotheses. It's important to provide a precise description of what the study aims to achieve and what specific hypotheses it seeks to test. This will help readers understand the focus of the research from the outset.
2. The article should provide a more detailed rationale for the selection of the 35 companies used as samples. Explain why these companies were chosen and how they represent various industries. Additionally, discuss the sample size and justify why it is adequate for drawing meaningful conclusions.
3. While the article mentions using secondary quantitative data, it is essential to elaborate on the sources of this data and the steps taken to ensure data quality and accuracy. Readers should have confidence in the reliability of the data used in the analysis.
4. The findings regarding the influence of the current ratio, return on equity, and price-earnings ratio on stock prices are valuable. However, the article should include a more thorough discussion of the practical implications of these findings. How can investors, analysts, and companies use this information to make informed decisions?
5. The article should provide a stronger theoretical framework and a review of relevant previous research. This will help place the current study in context and highlight its contribution to the existing body of knowledge. It's important to cite and discuss relevant studies on the topic.

I hope you can make improvements as soon as possible and send the revised article again via this email.

Dear

Ade Maharini Adiandari
Universitas Ngurah Rai, Bali, Indonesia

Thank you for the team's efforts to make improvements to the article.
Based on the reviewers' considerations, the article has, at some point, increased.
However, the team has to improve on a few more points. Hopefully team are willing to do it.

Please follow the following revision instructions:

#Reviewer 2:

1. The article could benefit from improved data presentation and visualization. Consider using tables, graphs, or charts to represent the key findings more visually. Visual aids can help readers quickly grasp the relationships between variables and make the data more accessible and understandable.
2. Provide a more detailed explanation of the statistical methods used, including the assumptions underlying multiple linear regression analysis. Ensure that the article discusses the robustness of the model and any potential issues with multicollinearity, heteroscedasticity, or autocorrelation.
3. Given the period of the study from 2018 to 2021, it's important to consider the potential impact of significant economic events or policy changes during that time. Discuss whether any unusual economic events might have influenced the results and how these were accounted for in the analysis.
4. Clarify whether the study establishes a causal relationship between the independent variables (current ratio, return on equity, and price-earnings ratio) and the dependent variable (stock prices). Does the research provide insights into the direction of influence? This can help readers better understand the dynamics at play.
5. Conclude the article with a section that outlines potential areas for future research. Suggest questions or aspects that were not covered in this study but could provide valuable insights. This will encourage further academic exploration in this field.
